Linear Composites Ltd Launch New Website

December 2010

Linear Composites Ltd is pleased to announce the launch of its new, dynamic website, developed in conjunction with Bower Parnham Stewart.

Key features of our new website include more detailed product and application information, a wide variety of freely available case studies and a new secure login area where users can register to receive product technical data and other relevant information.

We hope you enjoy this new user experience and if you have any comments that you think might further improve our website, please contact us at mail@linearcomposites.com

Best regards,

The team at Linear Composites Ltd
